1. Introduction

1.1. Overview

Openpay Group Limited (ACN 637 148 200) (the Company) and its subsidiaries strictly prohibit the offer, provision, or acceptance of Bribes. The Company has zero tolerance for Bribery and Corruption and is committed to ensuring its corporate culture actively discourages corrupt conduct in the strongest possible terms. The Company is expected to meet the highest ethical standards in line with the anti-bribery and corruption standards required by the Australian Securities Exchange (ASX). Serious criminal and civil penalties, as well as reputational damage, may be incurred if the Company or an Employee is involved in Bribery or Corruption (as those terms are defined in sections 2 and 3 below).

This Anti-Bribery and Corruption Policy (policy) sets out the Company's standards and guidelines on:

- a) what constitutes Bribery or Corruption:
- b) offering, accepting, and providing gifts and hospitality;
- c) participating in tenders and procuring goods and services; and
- d) providing donations and sponsorship.

This policy also outlines the process to follow if there are concerns that any employee, non-executive director, contractor, or agent of the Company is not complying with this policy.

This policy is consistent with and supports the Company's values as referred to on its website .

1.2. Purpose

The purpose of (this policy) is to:

- a) ensure that the Company, as a minimum, complies with its obligations under the Corporations Act 2001 (Cth) (Corporations Act), the ASX Listing Rules and ASX Corporate Governance framework and as much as possible seek to achieve and exceed best practice;
- b) educate Employees on what gifts, entertainment, hospitality, and other benefits are acceptable and unacceptable;
- c) ensure the Company complies with the ASX's Anti-Bribery and Corruption policy along with its broader risk management framework; and
- d) promote investor confidence in the integrity of the Company and its securities.

Any and all actual or suspected breaches of this policy must be immediately reported to the Company's Board or a committee of the Board upon identification.

2. Scope

2.1. General

This policy applies to anyone employed or engaged by the Company and its subsidiaries, including employees (whether permanent, fixed-term, or temporary), contractors, secondees, management staff, agents, and directors (collectively referred to as Employees in this policy). Associated entities of the Company are encouraged to adopt the policy.

In this policy, a Third Party means any individual or organisation interacted within the course of Company related work, and includes actual and potential clients, customers, suppliers, distributors, business contacts, agents, advisers, and government and public bodies, including their advisors, representatives and officials, politicians and political parties.

This policy should be considered alongside the other Company corporate governance policies. These policies can be downloaded from the Company's website.

2.2. Application

The Company operates in Australia. Currently, there are anti-bribery and corruption laws in Australia, including the Criminal Code Act 1995 (Cth), which the Company is subject to. If the Company operates in other jurisdictions, other laws may apply as well.

However, this policy applies globally. If traveling or operating outside Australia, Employees are subject to the laws of the country that they are in; however, the principles and spirit of this policy must be followed regardless of whether or not that country has specific bribery or corruption laws. Where a country has specific anti-bribery and corruption laws which are of a lesser standard than this policy, this policy prevails.

2.3. Responsibilities

Employees must read, understand and comply with this policy. The prevention, detection, and reporting of Bribery and other forms of Corruption are the responsibility of all those working for the Company or under its control.

2.4. Penalties and consequences

The civil, criminal, and financial penalties for bribery offences can potentially be significant and serious for Employees and the Company. There is a real risk that individuals involved may also be subject to imprisonment.

The impacts of Bribery and Corruption extend beyond the civil and criminal penalties to include:

- a) impacting on Company reputation and the Company's ability to procure and retain business;

- b) impacting on the Company's ability to do business with governments or public international organisations which may require a declaration that the Company has, and will, comply with certain laws;
- c) increased regulatory scrutiny and prosecution of the Company and/or its subsidiaries; and
- d) potential breach of certain established contractual provisions relating to compliance with applicable anti-bribery and corruption laws, which may trigger termination rights, penalties, or litigation.

2.5. Responsible Officer

Under this policy Employees may be required to provide information to, or obtain consent from, their Responsible Officer. As such:

if you are ...	the Responsible Officer is ...
a director or Company Secretary (other than the Chair of the Company's Audit and Risk Committee)	the Chair of the Company's Audit and Risk Committee
the Chair of the Company's Audit and Risk Committee	the Chair of the Company
an employee or contractor in the Company's headquarters	the Company Secretary
a general manager of a business unit	the Company Secretary
any other employee or contractor	the general manager of the relevant business unit, who will in turn notify the Company Secretary

The Company Secretary will have day to day responsibility for administering this policy. Consequently all Responsible Officers will report all matters arising under this policy which they are involved in to the Company Secretary to ensure the Company Secretary maintains a complete register on the matters arising under this policy. The directors and CEO may inspect this register as requested.

3. What is bribery and corruption?

The following is a general overview of what constitutes bribery and corruption based on judicial consideration, and general understandings, of those two terms. If in doubt, contact the Responsible Officer to discuss your circumstances in further detail. Regular training of Employees is required in order to assist in the recognition of, and best practices in dealing with, Corruption and Bribery.

3.1. Bribery

Bribery is the offering, promising, giving, accepting, or soliciting of an advantage as an inducement for action which is illegal, unethical, or a breach of trust and may affect the performance of an officer's duties and obligations to the Company.

A Bribe is an inducement, gift or reward offered, promised, or provided in order to gain any commercial, contractual, regulatory, personal, or operational advantage. Bribes can take the form of gifts, loans, fees, services, rewards, or other advantages.

3.2. Bribes and Bribery are prohibited

Employees, under no circumstances, are permitted to give, offer, promise, accept, request, or authorise a Bribe, or engage in Bribery, whether directly or indirectly. Any conduct which may otherwise be permitted by other provisions of this policy is prohibited if it would contravene the preceding.

3.3. Corruption

Corruption is a deliberate act of dishonesty, breach of the law, or abuse of public trust or power that undermines or is incompatible with the impartial exercise of an official's powers, authorities, duties or functions for private gain.

3.4. Corruption is prohibited

Employees, under no circumstances, are permitted to engage in Corruption, whether directly or indirectly. Any conduct which may otherwise be permitted by other provisions of this policy is prohibited if it would contravene the preceding.

4. Gifts and Hospitality

4.1. Independence and objectivity

The Company must remain objective and independent at all times. Consideration and careful judgement must be exercised in the offer or acceptance of gifts or benefits, which applies to direct payments and to payments in kind including the provision of goods or services, personal favours, and entertainment such as meals, travel, tickets to events, and other hospitality. In particular, the utmost care must be taken to ensure that there can be no reasonable perception that the gift or benefit is intended to influence the business relationship between the Company and the recipient of the gift (or vice versa) in an improper or unprofessional way.

4.2. Acceptable gifts and benefits

Generally - receipt of gifts or benefits

Employees must declare to their Responsible Officer:

a) all gifts and benefits received from; and

b) all gifts and benefits which they may retain, which are offered to them by, a Third Party in the course of their employment with the Company that are valued at A$350 or foreign current equivalent or more.

Written approval to retain or receive the gift or benefit must be sought within 5 working days of receipt or offer of the gift or benefit. The Employee must fill out the template form in Annexure A when providing their written request for approval.

Once the Responsible Officer has received the written request, they must respond within 5 working days of receiving the disclosure from the Employee.

Gifts or benefits should not be accepted on a re-occurring basis or broken down into parts of less than A$350 or foreign current equivalent.

Please consider the Company's Code of Conduct when reviewing these processes.

Generally - offering of gifts or benefits

Employees must seek the prior approval of their Responsible Officer before offering any gift or benefit to a Third Party in the course of their employment with the Company that is valued at A$350 or foreign currency equivalent or more. The Employee must fill out the template form in Annexure A when providing their written request for approval.

Once the Responsible Officer has received the written request, they must respond within 5 working days of receiving the disclosure from the Employee.

Gifts or benefits should not be offered on a re-occurring basis or broken down into parts of less than A$350 or foreign current equivalent.

Please consider the Company's Code of Conduct when reviewing these processes.

Public Officials - gifts or benefits in the course of employment

Additional restrictions apply when the third Party is a public official. A public official is anyone in a position of official authority that is conferred by a state, i.e. someone who holds a legislative, administrative, or judicial position of any kind, whether appointed or elected.

Employees must not accept gifts or benefits from, or offer gifts or benefits to, public officials in the course of their employment with the Company without the prior approval of the Responsible Officer.

The Employee must fill out the template form in Annexure A when providing their written request for approval.

Once the Responsible Officer has received the written request, they must respond within 5 working days of receiving the disclosure from the Employee.

Gifts or benefits should not be accepted on a re-occurring basis or broken down into parts of less than A$350 or foreign currency equivalent.

Please consider the Company's Code of Conduct when reviewing these processes.

Public Officials - gifts or benefits personally

Employees must not accept gifts or benefits from, or offer gifts or benefits to, public officials in a personal capacity with a value of A$350 or foreign currency equivalent or more without the prior approval of the Responsible Officer in light of the potential for such a gift or benefit to be associated with the Company.

The Employee must fill out the template form in Annexure A when providing their written request for approval.

Once the Responsible Officer has received the written request, they must respond within 5 working days of receiving the disclosure from the Employee.

Gifts or benefits should not be accepted on a re-occurring basis or broken down into parts of less than A$350 or foreign currency equivalent.

Please consider the Company's Code of Conduct when reviewing these processes.

4.3. Examples of principles applying to gifts and benefits, including hospitality

The following principles, amongst others, may be considered by a Relevant Officer when determining whether a gift or benefit may be retained, accepted, or offered:

- a) whether the gift is provided for the right reason - it should be given as an act of appreciation or common courtesy associated with standard business practice;
- b) it being understood there is no obligation or expectation placed on the recipient when receiving the gift or benefit;
- c) the gift or benefit being made openly;
- d) the gift or benefit being of a reasonable value and appropriate to the business relationship. It should not be out of proportion to general business practice;
- e) the gift or benefit being provided or received on an "arm's length" arrangement; and
- f) complying with all relevant laws.

Employees should consider these principles when considering whether or not to accept or offer gifts or benefits, including hospitality, and when providing information to the Responsible Officer.

4.4. Permitted exceptions

The following are permitted to be accepted or offered without seeking approval of the Responsible Officer provided the Third Party is not a public official, the value involved does not exceed A$350 or foreign currency equivalent and the circumstances do not involve Bribery, a Bribe, or Corruption:

- a) token gifts or benefits where offered in business situations or to all participants and attendees e.g. minor business merchandise (for instance a mug or umbrella) or attending work-related seminars;

- b) a gift or benefit given in gratitude when hosting business events or overseas delegations only where refusal would be unreasonable or unnecessarily offensive; or
- c) a gift or benefit for presenting at a work-related conference, seminar, and/or business event.

4.5. Permanent prohibitions

The following are never permitted to be accepted or offered, even if otherwise permitted under this clause:

- a) making or accepting gifts of money (including by cash, by personal cheque, and by other cash-equivalents, such as pre-paid gift or debit card);
- b) drug or other controlled substances;
- c) product or service discounts that are not available to all Employees;
- d) personal use of accommodation or transport;
- e) payments or loans provided towards the purchase of personal property;
- f) payments of commissions to those acting in an agency or fiduciary capacity; and gifts that involve a "quid pro quo" understanding (where the gift is provided for a benefit in return).

5. Tenders and Procurement

In relation to tenders and procurement for services to be provided to the Company, all Employees are expected to act with a high degree of professional integrity and in accordance with the Company's Code of Conduct.

The following requirements are designed to assist you in your negotiations with external parties including suppliers in order to avoid conflicts and unethical behaviour.

All material and potential conflicts of interest in relation to any particular tender or procurement process must be declared immediately and consent must be obtained from either the Responsible Officer before proceeding or continuing to proceed with the process. Further:

- a) all tenders and procurement processes must be conducted fairly and transparently;
- b) there must be no favour or undue preference to any supplier at the expense of the Company;
- c) no personal benefit should be received, directly or indirectly, in connection with the tender or procurement process; and
- d) the tender and procurement process must be appropriately documented (to identify why the provider was ultimately selected).

6. Facilitation Payments

A facilitation payment is a form of Bribery made for the purpose of expediting or facilitating the performance of a public official for a routine government action e.g. processing applications, issuing permits and other actions of an official in order to expedite performance of duties of a non-discretionary nature. Facilitation payments are prohibited under this policy, regardless of whether they may be permitted under the laws of a jurisdiction in which the Company operates.

7. Donations and Sponsorships

Any donations and sponsorships not prohibited under this section 7 made by Employees using Company funds, rather than personal funds, must be approved by the Board.

Please be aware that promises of donations and sponsorships, even if no payment is ever made, are equally capable of being caught by the anti-bribery and corruption laws in a number of countries.

7.1. Political donations

The Company may make donations to political parties from time to time.

Care must be exercised when providing donations or sponsorship. The Company and Employees must comply with the spirit of this policy, including avoiding multiple donations and sponsorship which, if aggregated, may breach this policy.

Prior written approval of either the Chair of the Company or the Chair of the Audit & Risk Committee is required to provide any donation or financial contribution with a value of more than the Board approved financial limits or foreign currency equivalent to any political party or candidate for an election, in a personal capacity, in light of the potential for such a donation or gift to be associated with the Company.

7.2. Charitable Donations

The Company may engage in community programs that allow Employees to support causes and charities of their choice from a broad list of charity partners. Charitable support and donations are acceptable, whether constituting knowledge, time, or direct financial contributions. However, Employees must be careful to ensure that charitable contributions are not used as a method of concealing Bribery.

The Company must ensure that it only makes charitable donations that are legal and ethical under local laws and practices. In Australia, this means that an organisation must have deductible gift recipient status with the Australian Taxation Office. This status makes the organisation entitled to receive income tax-deductible gifts and deductible contributions.

No donation may be offered or made on behalf of the Company without the prior approval of either the Chair of the Company or the Chair of the Audit & Risk Committee, except to the extent permitted by any workplace giving program.

8. Record keeping

The Company secretary must keep a record of all requests and written approvals for receiving and offering gifts or benefits. This register will be reviewed at least annually by the Board.

All accounts, invoices, memoranda, and other documents and records relating to dealings with Third Parties should be prepared and maintained with strict accuracy and completeness. No accounts must be kept "off-book" to facilitate or conceal any improper payments.

Regular reviews of this register will assist in identifying and managing any emerging risks e.g. if regular gifts or benefits are being received by certain Employees.

9. Raising concerns

Employees have a responsibility to help detect, prevent and report instances of Bribery and Corruption as well as any other suspicious activity or wrong doing in connection with the Company's business. The Company is committed to ensuring that all Employees have a safe, reliable, and confidential way of reporting any suspicious activity.

If there are any queries or concerns, Employees should raise these with the Responsible Officer.

If an Employee is uncomfortable, for any reason, with speaking directly to the Responsible Officer, the Company has a Whistleblower Policy which affords certain protections against reprisal, harassment, or demotion for making the report.

10. Contravention Serious criminal and civil penalties, as well as reputational damage, may be incurred if the Company or an Employee is involved in Bribery or Corruption.

Any breaches of this policy must be reported to the Responsible Officer. Where considered appropriate by either the Responsible Officer the gift received may be:

- a) donated to charity;
- b) divided up among employees or made available for the recipient's team; or
- c) returned to the giver with an explanation of this policy.

In exceptional cases, either the Responsible Officer may determine that the gift may be retained by the recipient.

Notwithstanding the above, all gifts considered to be a Bribe or a potential Bribe or which may involve Corruption will be returned to the giver immediately. Any breaches of this policy will be taken seriously and may result in disciplinary action, including termination of employment.

11. Other Matters

11.1. Amendment of policy

This Policy can only be amended with the approval of the Board.

11.2. Training

The Company will provide training sessions to assist employees' understanding and management of Bribery and Corruption issues, as appropriate.

11.3. Adoption of Policy and Board review

This policy was adopted by the Board on the date on the front cover of this Policy, and takes effect from that date and replaces any previous policy in this regard.

The Board will review this policy periodically to ensure effective operation and assess whether any changes are necessary. The Company Secretary will communicate any amendments to employees as appropriate.
